“Elected officials need to stay in touch with the people we represent on a regular basis. In challenging times like these, it’s particularly important create a dialog about the challenges and opportunities we face as a community,” said Councilman Kent Edmondson. “Resident feedback is critical to serving our district and making Blue Springs the best community it can be.”

“These meetings provide us with an opportunity to hear directly from residents about their priorities, answer questions and address concerns,” said Councilman Chris Lievsay. “Town hall meetings are participatory democracy in its purest form. I invite all Blue Springs residents to attend and bring their questions or concerns.”

The meetings are scheduled to last one hour and are open to all Blue Springs residents.
